The Tulane Latin American Law Institute (TLALI) was established in New Orleans, Louisiana, unique in its practice of continental civil law and common law as well a gateway to America as a forum to debate business and legal matters. Past conferences have included world leaders, business and professional top-notch professionals who have without doubt contributed to the success of the conferences.

TLALI'S mission is to assist in stimulating transparency in the crucial relations between U.S.A. and Latin America: The Institute aims to identify common political, social and economical ground and to foster relationships between those who participate in the Institute in order to improve the legal and business climate of the hemisphere.

We highly recommend attendance by: Attorneys, Businessmen, Public Officials and all those that are involved in international activities in the Americas
