TULANE ESTATE PLANNING INSTITUTE

In 2002, Tulane Law School established the Tulane Estate Planning Institute to provide a permanent forum for the study of estate planning laws in Louisiana, the United States and other jurisdictions. As part of the Institute’s goal to provide a setting for the discussion of legal and tax issues pertinent to estate planning, the Institute sponsors Tulane Law School’s annual estate planning continuing legal education program, currently in its 23rd year. This annual program, now known as the Estate Planning Institute, recognizes Tulane Law School’s renewed commitment to providing the highest quality instruction on the most important and topical issues facing estate planning professionals.

Tulane Law School wishes to acknowledge the members of the Tulane Estate Planning Institute Advisory Board:
